Quest were appointed to develop the client brief, and to the budget constraints. The key factor was to allow flexible working and a suitable environment to complete this. To meet the brief the majority of the existing internal walls had to be removed to open up the space for the department

The project was located on the 5th floor of an occupied building, so Quest had to maintain a good working relationship with all users and ensure dust and noise were controlled suitably. Quest site based team ensure this was the case from start to finish.
