Imperial College,
 March 2020

Quest worked along side the Design Team from stage 3 to develop the design for construction.

Excellent communication and planning was needed throughout the project in order to gain access to the spaces required while working within a live building. The team also had the new challenge of COVID-19 to deal with during the completion of this project. Site issues related to this were managed clearly with the client to ensure delivery was on time and within budget.
